1. In some countries the government places a limit on the number of children a couple can have, while in other countries the government offers economic incentives to a couple to have more children. Why do governments establish population policies like these? What effects do these policies have? Discuss, and give specific examples to support your views.

2. There is no universal definition of the word adult. Different cultures, religions, legal systems, and individuals have varying ideas about when a person becomes an adult. What factors do you think define adulthood? Support your opinion with specific reasons.

When you have selected your topic, remember to fill in “1” or “2” in the ECPE Writing Response box in the front of your writing answer document.

Please observe silence. Do not leave the room during the time period. Remember, you have 30 minutes to complete your essay.

DO NOT TURN THE PAGE UNTIL THE EXAMINER HAS TOLD YOU TO DO SO.
Keep your eyes on your own test. Examinees giving or receiving answers or using notes or other aids will be disqualified, and they will fail. Examination fees will not be refunded.

Look at the TOP RIGHT of SIDE ONE of your answer sheet. Fill in the following information on the lines:

- FULL NAME: print your full name in this order: family name, then first name, then middle initial (MI). Use all capital letters.
- YOUR SIGNATURE: sign your name.
- TEST CENTER: print the name of the test center.
- NATIVE LANGUAGE: print your native language.
- TODAY’S DATE: print the month, day, and year.

Look at the TOP LEFT of SIDE ONE of your answer sheet. Use capital letters to fill in the following information in the blocks. Use the same spelling you used on your registration form:

- LAST NAME: print your main family name in the blocks, one letter per block. There are 13 blocks. If your last name is longer than 13 letters, print only the first 13 letters.
- FIRST: print the first 6 letters of your first name.
- MI: print the initial of your middle name.

Look at the columns of CIRCLES BELOW THE BLOCKS:

- Find the letter that is the same as the letter you have printed in the block above.
- Darken the circle completely so that you cannot see the letter inside.
- Do this for all the letters of your last name, first name, and your middle initial.
- Darken only one circle in each of the columns.

- BIRTHDATE: find the month you were born and darken the circle next to it.
- DAY: print the day you were born. If it is a 1-digit day, write zero first. Darken the circles underneath these numbers.
- YEAR: print the last 2 digits of the year you were born. Darken the circles underneath these numbers.
- SEX: darken the circle “M” (male) or “F” (female).
- LANG. (LANGUAGE): print the 2-digit code number for your native language (the examiner will tell you the number). Darken the circles.
- CENTER NO.: print the 3-digit test center number (the examiner will tell you the number). Darken the circles.
- REG. NO.: print your 6-digit personal registration number. Include all zeros, including those at the beginning of the number. Darken the circles.
- SPKG: do not fill in the space marked SPKG.
- FORM: darken the circle of the form letter on your test booklet. Make sure the form letter you darken matches the form letter on this booklet.

This test may be machine scored, so you must follow instructions carefully:

- Do not bend or fold your answer sheet.
- Mark all your answers on the separate answer sheet, not in the test booklet.
- Use a number 2 (soft) pencil.
- Your mark must be dark enough to be picked up by the scanning machine. The scanner cannot see very light marks.
- Do not make any other marks on your answer sheet.
- If you change your mind about an answer, erase your first mark completely.
- Fill in only one circle for each problem.
- Any problem with more than one answer marked will be counted wrong.
- If you are not sure about an answer, you may guess.

When instructed to, look through the rest of the test booklet to see that it is complete. Check the pages quickly. You should have 23 numbered pages in your test booklet. If there are pages missing from your test booklet, raise your hand and a proctor will give you a replacement.

GRAMMAR, CLOZE, VOCABULARY, AND READING SECTION INSTRUCTIONS

This section of the examination contains 120 questions, numbered 51 through 170. There are 40 grammar, 20 cloze, 40 vocabulary, and 20 reading comprehension questions. If you do not understand how to do the questions, raise your hand and a proctor will explain the examples to you. None of the actual test questions can be explained.

Each problem has only one correct answer. Do not spend too much time on any one problem. If you do not know the answer to a problem, you may guess. Work quickly but carefully. You have one hour and 15 minutes (75 minutes) to answer all 120 questions. If you finish before the time is over, you may check your answers within the GCVR section only. Do not go back to the listening section of the exam.

Here are examples of each kind of problem. In each example, the correct answer is underlined. For the test questions, fill in the circle on your answer sheet that corresponds to your answer choice. Do not mark your answers in this test booklet. Mark all your answers on the separate answer sheet.

This passage is about a famous house.

Fallingwater is recognized as one of the most unique and innovative works of American architecture of the twentieth century. Designed in 1935 by architect Frank Lloyd Wright, this beautiful house in western Pennsylvania is actually built over a waterfall. Wright (91) the house above the waterfall by (92) it to the rock next to the falls with concrete “trays,” which (93) the natural shape of rock ledges. As a result, the house appears to be suspended above the waterfall, which cascades (94) it.

Wright took much care in (95) Fallingwater as harmonious with nature as possible by linking the house to its natural surroundings. He placed large windows on (96) walls of the house so that the breeze and sound of the water could flow through the house without hindrance. Wright also proposed covering the building in gold leaf in (97) to imitate the color of dying plants, and (98) connect the house to the change of seasons and the (99) of time. Furthermore, he added a (100) of outdoor terraces where people could enjoy the cool air of the wooded valley.

Today, Fallingwater is open to the public with its original setting, furnishings, and artwork intact.
This passage is about frogs.

Several new brightly colored and diverse frog species have recently been identified on the tropical island of Sri Lanka. The new species were identified by noticeable differences in physical features, habitat, development, and genetic \(101\). Some are tiny and dwell on the ground, whereas others are large and \(102\) trees. Five of the new species lay eggs in homespun baskets suspended \(103\) water, so that when the eggs \(104\) the tadpoles have no difficulty \(105\) their first swim. The remaining new frog species give birth to their young by producing eggs on the forest \(106\). These frogs bypass the tadpole stage and emerge as miniature \(107\) of their parents.

Frogs and other amphibians are important indicators of ecological balance; therefore a decline in their numbers would be considered a warning that \(108\) of the natural environment for a particular area is needed. \(109\) that Sri Lanka has already lost much of its forests, measures to protect the remaining forest fragments are \(110\). Since many frogs produce chemicals that could have practical applications in health care and medical treatment, they are a potential source of new drugs. Thus, ensuring that frogs are protected by preserving and restoring their habitat is very important.

   a. exhibit
   b. specialize
   c. characterize
   d. imply
This passage is about chocolate.

Around 200 BCE, the Maya of Central America prepared a chocolate drink using cacao. They ground cacao seeds into a paste that was blended with water, peppers, cornmeal, and other ingredients. Afterward, the mixture was poured back and forth from cup to pot until thick foam appeared on the surface. Cacao was a valuable commodity in this civilization, as evidenced by the report of an early explorer who noted that three cacao beans could buy a turkey egg, four could buy a pumpkin, and ten could buy a rabbit.

By the fifteenth century, expansion of the Aztec civilization throughout most of Central America brought the Aztecs into contact with the Maya. The Aztecs also viewed chocolate as a valuable commodity. It has been noted by historians that each day the emperor of the realm, Moctezuma, drank fifty cups of xocolatl, or “bitter water,” from golden goblets. Unable to cultivate the tropical cacao in the temperate highlands where they lived, the Aztecs depended upon trade with the Maya. Men hauled cacao in woven backpacks from Honduras to Tenochtitlan, the capital of the Aztec civilization, a distance of approximately 1,400 kilometers.

Regulated by special government officials who ensured that weights, measures, and prices matched the quality of goods, the Aztec marketplace included both vendors of prepared chocolate and dealers of raw beans. Honest cacao sellers would divide the beans into separate piles according to their origin. Dishonest sellers would sell counterfeit beans by artificially coloring inferior lots of cacao or even by disguising amaranth dough or avocado seeds with cacao hulls to fool customers. Cacao was so precious to the Aztecs that it was not only used as currency but also to pay tribute, a tax imposed by the emperor. Over time, the Aztecs conquered large portions of Mayan territory, partly to have more of these precious beans.

151. What is the main purpose of the passage?
   a. to demonstrate why cacao was a regulated commodity
   b. to explain how commodities such as cacao could be used as currency
   c. to explain why the Aztecs conquered the Maya
   d. to describe the history of the cacao trade

152. According to the author, what indicates that cacao was valuable in the Mayan civilization?
   a. An explorer noted its use as currency.
   b. Moctezuma drank fifty cups of xocolatl a day.
   c. The Aztecs traded with the Maya for cacao.
   d. The Maya refused to trade it with the Aztecs.

153. How did the Aztecs first acquire cacao?
   a. They traded for it with the Maya.
   b. They discovered it in the wild.
   c. They accepted it as a tribute payment.
   d. They cultivated it in fields.

154. According to the passage, why did the Aztecs regulate cacao?
   a. so that chocolate drinks would be of high quality
   b. to ensure a fair price for the quality of the goods
   c. to restrict the use of cacao as currency
   d. so that buyers knew the origin of the beans

155. What did the Aztecs do to ensure a plentiful supply of cacao?
   a. They preserved the seeds using special ingredients.
   b. They conquered Mayan territory.
   c. They cultivated it in the highlands.
   d. They regulated the sale of cacao.
This passage is about beetles.

Most horned varieties of beetles belong to Lamellicornia, a large group of beetles that includes two families: the scarabs—or chafers—and the stag beetles. Though most are hornless, some scarab species develop horns that are hollow skeletal outgrowths of either the head or thorax and so are analogous to the body outgrowths that give rise to horns in mammals and reptiles. The stag beetle family is much smaller in number of species but includes proportionately more horned varieties.

Beetle horns do not develop gradually, as in mammals, but are quickly and fully formed during the last molt to the adult stage. The final size of the horns is believed to depend on nutrition, with well-fed larvae giving rise to larger-horned adults.

Early naturalists, most of them collectors, often had little time or inclination to observe the behavior of beetles in their natural habitats. Speculations on the use of horns were therefore based mainly upon examinations of pinned museum specimens, or, only rarely, on observations of beetles in captivity. Some early naturalists speculated that horns are sometimes used in defense against predators, to dig burrows, or as weapons in fights between males. Darwin thought that horns might be ornaments that impress females, while other biologists speculated that horns could be used to lacerate plant stems, permitting the beetles to feed on plant saps. Still another viewpoint, one held by Julian Huxley, is that horns serve no function and are merely byproducts of increasing body size.

When horned beetles are observed more carefully under both natural and controlled conditions, we should learn how horns are used and why they develop.

This passage is about vending machines.

Few would disagree that vending machines are a great convenience. They are always on, ready to dispense a soda or snack at any time. Unfortunately, this also entails using a lot of power to keep the machines running, even when no one is around to buy anything. Vending machines typically cool less volume than a home refrigerator, while using up to five times as much energy. Recently, a North American company developed a new device that can help facility managers conserve natural and financial resources by reducing the electricity consumption of vending machines.

The device, called a Vending Miser, saves power by shutting down a soda machine when there are no potential customers present. The device consists of two parts. The first is a motion sensor installed in the wall above the vending machine that emits an infrared beam that extends several feet around the vending machine. If a moving object, such as a customer, crosses the beam, the sensor sends a signal to the second component, the power controller, which activates the vending machine, instantly bringing it to life, much the way an automatic door works.

Originally, many customers were wary of the new device, thinking that the soda machine was broken or that their favorite beverages might get too warm if the machine stayed off for a long period of time. Leaving lights running on the front panel solved the first problem. As for the second, the soda machines contain an internal thermometer, which is able to activate internal compressors that cool the beverages, even while power is cut off. Additionally, the Vending Miser itself periodically monitors the surrounding air temperature and reactivates the machine’s compressors as necessary. Depending on air temperature and foot traffic patterns, energy savings resulting from use of the new device range from 24 to 76 percent.

161. What is the primary purpose of this passage?
   a. to describe a new invention and its benefits
   b. to identify the problems of a new invention
   c. to demonstrate the usefulness of vending machines
   d. to compare two methods of improving a product

162. According to the passage, how does a standard vending machine compare to a home refrigerator?
   a. Home refrigerators use infrared detectors.
   b. Home refrigerators keep sodas cooler.
   c. Vending machines use more energy to cool less space.
   d. Vending machines require constant maintenance.

163. When is a machine with a Vending Miser activated?
   a. when power is shut down
   b. when someone walks by
   c. when potential energy savings are high
   d. when lights on a panel are on

164. What is one concern that customers have expressed?
   a. They think the machine will waste energy.
   b. They think the cost of soda will rise.
   c. They are afraid their drinks will not be cold.
   d. They are afraid the machine will work too slowly.

165. In the last paragraph, what does the author mean by foot traffic patterns?
   a. the trends in the number of people passing by
   b. the number of people buying soda from a vending machine
   c. the distance the beam extends from a vending machine
   d. the shape the beam makes around a vending machine
This passage is about green roofs.

Recognized as having one of the largest green roofs in the world, the new Ford Truck Assembly Plant in Dearborn, Michigan, serves as a model for the twenty-first century. In this time of growing concern over environmental issues from global warming to urban sprawl, the Ford plant shows that it is possible to reduce these concerns by means of well-designed green architecture.

Green roofs are, as the name implies, gardens that are placed on the roof of a building. These roofs are composed of a waterproofing and root-repellent system designed to protect the underlying building structure, a drainage system, a lightweight growing medium, and plants selected based on characteristics such as drought tolerance. The gardens are designed to be self-sustaining, requiring little upkeep except for occasional weeding or fertilization.

In addition to supporting plant growth, the growing medium absorbs water. Experts cite the latter as the single most important advantage of green roof technology, because the plants store rainwater and return it to the atmosphere. It is predicted that the Ford Plant green roof will retain 447,000 gallons of water per year, conserving 50 percent of the rain that falls on the roof each year. Less rainwater also means less water that must pass through the city’s water sewage treatment facilities.

What runoff there is has been filtered by the roof system. In addition, green roofs improve air quality by filtering the air above them and encouraging the exchange of carbon dioxide and oxygen through photosynthesis. Furthermore, they reduce the heat island effect in cities caused by an ever-increasing amount of hard surfaces that absorb solar radiation. Finally, green roofs are aesthetically appealing: they improve the appearance of barren urban and industrial sites.

166. What is the main idea of this passage?
   a. Green roofs need less maintenance than regular roofs.
   b. Green roofs are becoming more common on automotive plants.
   c. Green roofs have a variety of environmental benefits.
   d. Green roofs can solve the problem of global warming.

167. When do roof gardens need to be planted?
   a. after each rainfall
   b. annually each spring
   c. when first created
   d. following a period of drought

168. According to the passage, what is the most significant benefit of a green roof?
   a. It cools the building it is on.
   b. It supports plant life.
   c. It absorbs solar radiation.
   d. It retains rainwater.

169. According to the passage, what is one way in which green roofs improve air quality?
   a. by reflecting solar radiation
   b. by reducing air temperature
   c. by promoting gas exchange
   d. by absorbing rainwater

170. How do green roofs reduce the heat island effect?
   a. They capture less heat from the sun than traditional roofs.
   b. They increase the movement of air around the building.
   c. They retain a lot of rainwater.
   d. They absorb the sun’s heat.
30% POST-CONSUMER RECYCLED FIBER
Indicates that the product contains recycled materials that have been consumed and decontaminated to be reintroduced in the manufacturing process.
