

Score Report

Test Taker

Vicente Luis Lizarribar Costa	5/29/06
Full Name	Birthdate (mm/dd/yy)
34567892	11/8/19
Registration Number	Date of Test (mm/dd/yy)
Mexico City	Mexico
City	Country

Results

SCORE: 31 CEFR: A2

Section	Score	CEFR
LISTENING	31	A2
READING	32	A2
WRITING	31	A2
SPEAKING	31	A2

General Information

- MET Go! is a general English proficiency test designed for learners of middle to secondary school age.
- MET Go! is aimed at levels A1 to B1 of the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR). The CEFR describes language proficiency at six main levels, from A1-A2 (Basic User), B1-B2 (Independent User) to C1-C2 (Proficient User).
- The overall CEFR level reported is an average of the sections tested.
- Detailed personalized feedback is provided on the back of this score report.
- A section score of X means the test taker was exempt from that section. A section score of 0 means the test taker did not attempt the section, or their answer was not on topic.
- Because language proficiency can change over time, if a significant amount of time has passed since the test was taken, score users should consider the test taker's subsequent experience with English in addition to the test scores themselves.
- Michigan Language Assessment reserves the right to update results or test taker information.
- Institutions may verify results at: MichiganAssessment.org.

➔ Continue Your English Language Learning

We looked carefully at your answers on the test so we can tell you more about your English. Below is information about what you are good at, what to improve, and things you can do next. Keep learning!

About Your English

You can understand conversations and talks about everyday things well. You can understand main points as well as details. You know enough English words and grammar to follow simple talks and conversations. However, work on listening for how speakers feel about the topic and the reason they're talking, too.

Things To Do

Watch reviews of movies or products you like. What is the reviewer's opinion? How do you know?

You can understand some of the details in short, simple readings, and sometimes find the main idea or purpose, too. Sometimes you know how sentences connect to each other as well. You know some basic English words, and they sometimes help you understand the things you read. Your grammar knowledge also helps you to understand simple sentences and some longer ones.

Read an English website about your favorite actor, athlete, or musician. Use a dictionary to help you understand new words. Tell a classmate or family member about what you learned.

You can describe familiar places and things in detail. However, try to connect your ideas when you talk about what people do. When you talk about a personal experience, you include a lot of interesting information. You're also able to explain why you believe something, but make sure you say clearly what your opinion is. You sometimes try to use more advanced grammar and longer words, too. Keep it up! Finally, your message is usually clear when you talk.

Try going to a store with a friend or family member. Find a product that you like or don't like. Use English to explain why.

You can tell a story when you write. Next, try writing about your personal experiences and opinions. Also, you could add more details to your writing to make it more interesting. To help readers follow your writing, try using more connecting words. Grammar and vocabulary mistakes sometimes make your writing hard to understand.

Read some pages from an English story. Look for words like "and," "then," "but," and "because." Now, write in English about the things you did today. Can you use one of those words in every sentence?

Score Report

Test Taker

Gloria Rodriguez 12/4/05
Full Name Birthdate (mm/dd/yy)

98765432 11/8/19
Registration Number Date of Test (mm/dd/yy)

Rosario Argentina
City Country

Results

SCORE: 33 CEFR: A2

Section	Score	CEFR
LISTENING	33	A2
READING	35	A2
WRITING	34	A2
SPEAKING	31	A2

General Information

- MET Go! is a general English proficiency test designed for learners of middle to secondary school age.
- MET Go! is aimed at levels A1 to B1 of the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR). The CEFR describes language proficiency at six main levels, from A1-A2 (Basic User), B1-B2 (Independent User) to C1-C2 (Proficient User).
- The overall CEFR level reported is an average of the sections tested.
- Detailed personalized feedback is provided on the back of this score report.
- A section score of X means the test taker was exempt from that section. A section score of 0 means the test taker did not attempt the section, or their answer was not on topic.
- Because language proficiency can change over time, if a significant amount of time has passed since the test was taken, score users should consider the test taker's subsequent experience with English in addition to the test scores themselves.
- Michigan Language Assessment reserves the right to update results or test taker information.
- Institutions may verify results at: MichiganAssessment.org.

➔ Continue Your English Language Learning

We looked carefully at your answers on the test so we can tell you more about your English. Below is information about what you are good at, what to improve, and things you can do next. Keep learning!

About Your English

You can usually understand short conversations and talks about everyday things, and parts of longer ones as well. When listening, you can understand details, but practice listening for the main points. Also, think about the reasons why speakers are talking and how they feel about the topic. You know some English words, but learning more words and grammar can help you to understand what you hear.

Things To Do

Watch an English video about a place to visit. What are the three most interesting things you learned about this place?

When you read, you can understand some of the details. However, it is difficult for you to find the main idea and purpose of a reading. You know some basic English words, and they sometimes help you understand short, simple readings. You know enough grammar to read simple sentences, but you don't always understand how sentences connect to each other.

Read English comics or other stories with pictures. Who were the people in the story? What did they do? Why did they do it? Write the details of the story in your own words. Can you tell the story to someone else?

You can describe familiar people, places and things, but try to add more details when you can. You could also try to connect your ideas when you talk about what people do. When you talk about a personal experience, you include some interesting information. You're able to give a personal opinion on a topic, too. However, practice including some reasons to explain what you think. You can use basic grammar and vocabulary to communicate simple ideas. Good job! Next time, try to use a variety of verb tenses and nouns when speaking. Finally, some of your message is clear when you talk.

Tell a friend or family member about something you like to do. Describe where, when, why, and how you do that thing. Also talk about who you do it with.

You can tell a story and write about things you do. Writing about your opinions is something you can work on next. You use details most of the time when you write. In the future, add more information when you can to make your writing more interesting. The way you write usually makes it easy for the reader to follow what you are saying. Your grammar and vocabulary skills also help make your writing clear to readers. When writing, you include some long sentences. However, try learning and using more advanced words.

To improve your writing, think about your favorite book, movie or song. Write a list of reasons in English about why you like it. Use words like "first" and "next" to put the reasons in order from most important to least important.

